

HE AND MYERS?

A Man Suspected of Having Aided the Murderer to Get Away.

UNDER CLOSE SURVEILLANCE

One of Myers's Former Friends Suspected of Having a Part in the Case.

A certain man who took a very prominent part in the Myers case when he was in court is suspected of having aided the murderer to escape from jail. He is under surveillance and it may be through him that Will Myers may be captured. The man in question is at present out of the city and he has been away for four or five weeks. The fact is considered important in connection with the case. It is suspected that he went away to receive and harbor Myers after having made it possible for the murderer to escape from jail. The man is supposed to be in a south Georgia town and he is said to be at this time under surveillance. The officials interested in the capture of Myers so state, although they are reticent about the case unless closely questioned. It is confidently expected that the man will eventually result in some good unless the man in question gets wind of the suspicion directed towards him and covers up all tracks by which Myers can be found.

It is said, on very good authority, that a certain detective in New South Georgia looking for Myers. He has been away for days ago, and it is said that he was sent to shadow the Atlanta who left here some days before Myers escaped. No tidings have been heard from him in the last day or two, but at last accounts he was in Columbus, according to rumor.

The detective in question is Detective Cason. His absence from the city was brought to light by the fact that he was to be tried on certain charges pending against him as a member of the police department. In his absence his friends requested that his case be postponed for a few days, it having been set for a hearing several nights ago. That the detective went away to look for Myers there seems to be no doubt.

The man who is undoubtedly under surveillance attained considerable notoriety by reason of the prominence he took in the Myers case. He assisted Myers in every way possible and secured much of the evidence introduced in defense of the murderer. He is said to be an old friend of the Myers family. There is no doubt but that he gained every point possible in behalf of the murderer and that fact caused him to be suspected of having in some manner aided Myers to get away.

When it was learned that the man left the city a short time before Myers escaped, it was considered significant. When the fact became known an investigation was set about and every development of it seemed to substantiate the belief that the man had some connection with the escape or present whereabouts of the young murderer. An effort was made to locate him and it is almost certain that he is now being watched, if not by Detective Cason, by others interested in capturing Myers.

It is an almost conceded fact that Myers had outside assistance in escaping and disappearing so mysteriously. He could not have so easily evaded every search that has been made for him and completely hid himself to the world without aid from friends on the outside. That belief convinced those anxious to capture Myers that if he was ever captured he would be found in the care of some of his former friends and supporters. Fully deciding that the correct theory of the case lay in the belief those who aided him to get away, who his friends and former supporters were.

A short investigation brought the man in question into prominence as the one of all who might have aided the murderer to get away. He was suspected of having a part in the escape by reason of his previous connection with the case, and it was at once decided to keep him under a watch on him. It was thought that if he aided Myers the latter would be found with him. When it became known the man had left the city a short time before Myers escaped, the suspicion was substantiated. It was thought that the man had arranged everything for Myers to escape when the opportunity presented itself and then left the city, agreeing to meet Myers at a given point and care for him.

The name of the man in question is known to all who have watched the case, but it is withheld at the request of those after Myers in the hope of the latter that Myers will be captured by the hands of the man being under surveillance.

HOW IT WILL BE.

A Description of the Routing of the Napoleon of the Future. It was a cutting from the Times which had charged the right flank and scattered it to the winds, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Dynamite bombs fell like rain from the airship above. The four hundred men of the army were lying face down on the field, dead. It looked as if the blues were going to win the day with untold defeat. They rushed in solid ranks upon the ramparts and the guns were down in tens of thousands, still they persisted. The guns beyond the fortress were white hot with rapid firing and their ammunition was momentarily growing scarcer.

On the blues advanced undimmed, confident of victory. On and on they clattered over the field, the road was high. They heard the roar of the guns growing fainter and fainter. They saw the inevitable downfall of the fortress if they persisted. On they plunged, heeding nothing. The volleys from the guns now killed but a handful compared to the devastation they had wrought all day long and it was plain that the reds were reduced to the very last extremes of battle.

Suddenly the guns ceased firing; their ammunition had given out. "Up, guards, and at 'em," shrieked the general in command. "Victory is ours!" Forty thousand men advanced. It was all that was left of the 2,000,000 brave soldiers who had gone into battle that morning. On they swept like a storm. They were almost upon the ramparts when—

Good heavens! What was that which caused these 40,000 men to stop short, stand trembling and then turn on their heels and fly in dismay? Oh, heavens! What was that more deadly than the roar of cannons, more devastating than the storm of shells, more death-dealing than dynamite? See! On the ramparts stand in a solid phalanx 100 college men, all waving their colors and each splitting the air with his favorite college yell.

Fortunate are they in it. The imperial guard breaks and retreats in mad dismay. The Napoleon of the future is routed.

NEW MILLS TO START

The Busy Hum of Industry Will Sound With New Life.

THE NEW MILL IS COMPLETED

Atlanta's New Cotton Factory Will Begin Work This Morning—Something of Its Capacity.

Today or tomorrow Atlanta's new cotton mills will turn and send a new song of industry throughout the northern suburbs. These mills, which are an extension of the celebrated Exposition cotton mills, have just been completed, and President J. D. Turner announced that everything is in readiness for the opening. For the past few months the new mills have been in course of construction, and now that they are completed the Exposition mills have more than doubled their capacity. The old mills had 16,000 spindles, and the new building holds 32,000 more, making a total of 48,000 spindles, which will be humming and whirling Tuesday morning. Besides this vast increase in capacity, there have been several additional improvements constructed on the grounds, such as a spacious and substantial engine room and dwellings for the employees. The addition to the old mills will put to work about 60 operatives, vastly increasing the number now employed. Nearly a thousand additional looms are in place, and the mills will have a capacity nearly three times what they have had in the past. The engine power has been greatly increased, and the reservoir to furnish water for the mills is one of the complete new buildings. The new building is of brick, and is four stories high, constructed of the best material and fashioned after the latest and most improved style of architecture. It makes a handsome appearance, and the entire scene presented by the new mills and the old exposition building, which was converted into the mills after the Cotton Exposition was ended in 1881, is picturesque. The new building is built originally for the first exposition Atlanta ever had. There are four divisions to the building in the shape of a cross, and all of the divisions extend out at right angles.

With the additions that have been made to the old factory, the Exposition mills now lead the lead in this section. They are fitted up with machinery which is up to date in every particular. There have been wonderful advancements in the manufacture of mill machinery with the late inventions, and since the old Cotton Exposition mills were built there is all manner of difference in the appliances now engaged in the best mills of the country. In selecting the machinery with which the new mills have been furnished Dr. Turner has displayed good judgment and has not spared expense. The result is that the new Exposition mills are fitted up with the very best appliances known in the business. The boilers were heated up Saturday for trial, and this morning, or tomorrow morning, the steam will be turned on and the new mills held for a busy season.

TO HOLD A POULTRY SHOW.

The Georgia Fanciers' Association Has Been Organized.

The Georgia Fanciers' Association, composed of several poultry raisers of the state, has been organized, and a stock of birds will be exhibited at the exposition. The stock will be held in the building until recently occupied by the Phantoscope Company, which was secured Saturday from the exposition company. Rare birds, both foreign and domestic, have been entered, and will be placed on exhibition. Some of the leading fanciers of the state are members of the newly formed association, and they have determined to show what can be accomplished in Georgia in the way of breeding fine birds. Several shipments have been made from England and Russia and other foreign consignments are expected in a few days. Awards will be given on December 12th, inclusive. Much interest has been manifested in the coming show, and the public will be given an opportunity to see the best of poultry display ever given before in the south.

POULTRY SHOW.

One Will Be Opened at the Exposition

November 20th.

On November 20th The Constitution announced that the exposition company had abandoned the poultry and pet stock exhibition contemplated for December 5th to 12th, but that plans were being made for an association show to be announced later. Arrangements are now complete for a more extensive exhibit continuous from November 20th to the close of the exposition under the auspices of the Georgia Fanciers' Association. The exposition company on Saturday took possession of the vacant phantoscope building and turned it over to A. G. Hubert, the secretary of the association, to be filled immediately and thrown open for day and night to the close of the exhibition. Free entries are offered the fanciers, and an exchange will be maintained in connection with the sale of exhibition stock. Over 200 choice fowls and pets are now en route from eastern fanciers, including many old imported varieties never seen here, and the number will exceed 1,000 on opening day, with fresh arrivals to be added each week. Expert fanciers will answer questions and describe breeds to visitors, and that fine exhibition of oil, gas and electricity will be a scientific feature of the show.

As The Herald Sees It.

From The New York Herald.

If the republicans put up either Governor Morton or Mr. Whitelaw Reid democrats will have to make their strongest possible nomination; they hope to win notwithstanding the third term talk, which, as we have shown, now has little force. We think their strongest and best man is Mr. Cleveland, who has made a good president and to whom the democratic party ought to be grateful and to whom it owes a great deal.

TODAY AT THE CONGRESSES.

The programme for today's congresses in the woman's building is as follows:

MORNING SESSION, 10 A. M.
 "Sunlight and Its Effect on the Human System"—Dr. Adele Gleason, of Elmira, N. Y.

AFTERNOON SESSION—2 TO 5 P. M.
 Congress of Indiana women, Mrs. Laura D. Worley, president of the Indiana woman's commission, of Ellettsville, Ind., chairman.

Mrs. Lillian M. Gordon will introduce Mrs. Worley, who will outline the experience of the congress of Indiana women.

The general theme of that congress will be "The Social, Political and Religious Position of Women."

"Women's Heritage"—Mrs. Robert Miers, of Bloomington, Ind., president of the Woman's Club of Bloomington.

"Era of Women's Clubs"—Mrs. Inman Fowler, of Spencer, Ind., secretary of the Indiana Federation of Women's Clubs.

THE CONGRESS OF PROFESSIONAL WOMEN.

A number of brilliant women of various professions are in the city in attendance on the congress of professional women, of which Mrs. William A. Hemphill is chairman.

The paper read by Mrs. Wormley, of Philadelphia, on "Music and Song as a Profession for Women," was beautiful in its power of expression, and in the charming manner in which Miss Wormley read her paper. Containing, as it did, a concentrated history of women's music, it is of historic value and has been sought by the leading periodicals of the country.

Among other things, Miss Wormley said: "It is interesting to know that from the earliest times women have been connected with music in a professional way. Not only within the past few hundred years has the profession for women been raised to a high standard, but at no previous time has it held the dignified position of the present day. During back several centuries before the Christian era we find there were bands of women musicians, of whom numerous illustrations exist in the most ancient, I believe, being found in a tomb near Thebes, representing six women, the first playing upon a harp, the second upon the lyre, the third upon the t-bonnie or banjo, the fourth upon the double flute, the fifth upon the shoulder harp and the last, but not least, the singer, clapping hands and singing."

"Such musicians were engaged by people of moderate means for weddings and all festivities, while families of high rank supported a regular staff of professional musicians, who were expected, not only to dance and sing, but in times of bereavement, required to change their songs to wailing, lamenting and dirges, and, in necessary, undertake the entire family mourning. Among the Hebrews we note the same progression from men to women musicians. Probably the earliest mention of this idea from the earlier Egyptians, for they also borrowed the timbrel and tambourine, which became so celebrated through Miriam, the sister of Moses, who, historians tell us, must have been a professional musician. One who lived during the time of Christ and wrote the life of Moses says that Miriam and her mother, who were choruses, Moses leading the men, Miriam the women, and that during the time of the second temple, in times of special feasting, women were among the most important participants."

They must have been very winning and attractive biblical gentlemen, seeming as if they were to be the charmers of the song of the Lullaby, and even in those days, as now, credited the singer with undue influence over the minds of men. For in the Apocrypha we find the son of Sirach warning his brethren to "beware of female singers, that they entice thee not with their charms."

A Physician's Idea of Heredity.
 A paper on "Heredity," by Cora Belle Brewer, M. D., was read in the congress of professional women, and was a deeply scientific and instructive address. Mrs. Brewer is widely known in the medical profession and her address was quite an acquisition to Saturday's programme.

Some Musical Features.
 Mrs. Hugh Angier, chairman of the musical committee, prepared a series of delightful musicals to be given in assembly this week. Among the soloists will be Miss Ella Suzanne Wood, of Chicago. She has a beautiful soprano voice and has mastered music as a science and art. Her paper read at the women's congress was the subject of "The National Characteristics of the Opera," was a brilliant effort and by special request she will read it again in Chicago day.

Mrs. Henry D. Vought, of Buffalo, N. Y., an artist of renown in the musical world of New York, will be among those who will sing in the recitals in the assembly hall next week.

Miss Jane Louise Hulbert, of Meridian, Miss., has accepted invitation of the musical committee to sing in assembly hall the coming week. She is highly talented and completed her studies abroad under Scharwenka.

Miss Harrison, the beautiful and gifted daughter of General Harrison, of Opelika, Ala., will sing in the series of musicals being prepared by Mrs. Angier. Another talented musician who will appear at the same time is Miss Cunningham, of Dalton, Ga., who is a gifted pianist.

With the Press League.
 Two of the greatest days of the exposition will be next Wednesday and Thursday, which are set aside as Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania days, and also for the meeting of the International League of Press Clubs.

A fine programme has been arranged for the women's congress by the International League of Press Clubs, the exercises to take place in the afternoon of the 14th.

Mrs. Louie M. Gordon, representative at large and chairman of congresses for the exposition, will introduce the chairman for that day, Janey Maynard, of the Pittsburgh Bulletin. Miss Beck, president of the Georgia Woman's Press Club, will deliver the address. Mrs. Gordon will follow twenty-minute speeches by the following well-known newspaper women:

Mrs. Elroy M. Avery, of Ohio, president of the Cleveland Woman's Press Association, and the first woman to be given a civil office in Cleveland, having been elected a member of the school board of that city; Mrs. Croly (Jennie June), who needs no introduction, president of the New York Woman's Press Club, and active in Sorosis, as well as editor of The New Cycle; Eliza Archard Connor, woman editor of The American Press Association; Margherita Arline Haman, woman editor of Peterson's Magazine and of the woman's department of The New York Mail and Express; the editor of The Arena, Boston; Mrs. Eliza J. Nicholson, poet and editor and proprietor of The New Orleans Playmate; Miss Cynthia Westcott, editor of the woman's department of The New York Recorder; Lillian Whiting, essayist and poet; Mrs. Lillian Whiting, editor of Bachelorette's Newspaper Syndicate and writer of specialties; Mrs. Henry Birch, woman editor of Thursday, Pittsburgh; and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Reed, president of the Illinois Woman's Press Association, and writer of Persian Culture, Ancient and Modern. Miss department of The Atlanta Journal, will vary the programme with a recitation, and Mrs. Harry D. Vought, wife of Harry D. Vought, of The Buffalo Courier, will sing two songs, one composed for the occasion by Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie, Atlanta's sweet song writer, and the accompanying will be Miss Anna Stratton, of The Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.

Governor and Mrs. Atkinson will give a reception Thursday evening to the visiting governors. It promises to be an occasion of great brilliancy and is looked forward to with pleasure by those invited.

Today, from 8 to 12, Mrs. Clarence Angier will give a card party in honor of Miss Wattle.

Mrs. Samuel Martin Inman has issued cards to an at home today from 5 to 7.

Miss Engham, of St. Louis, and Miss Fitzsimmons, of Birmingham, are visiting Miss Christine Romare.

Mrs. Porter King will give a reception on Thursday evening at her residence. A delightful occasion will be given by Captain and Mrs. Jackson Wednesday evening in honor of their beautiful and brilliant daughter, Miss Charlie Jackson.

Mrs. Henry W. Grady left on Saturday for the Lexington, where he will deliver his sister, Mrs. W. M. Howard. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Howard may be sorry to learn that their three children are very ill with scarlet fever.

Major Mims's reception to the Daughters of the Confederacy Saturday from 6 to 8, was one of the most interesting and interesting affairs that has been given this season. There were many of the daughters present, and also a number of distinguished looking gentlemen, the latter, who rejoiced in getting together and recounting experiences of those days.

Behind a screen of palms and ferns the orchestra was placed. The guests were received by Mrs. Mims and Mrs. Thompson, who were assisted by a number of young girls. Mrs. Mims was strikingly beautiful in white and black striped satin with diamond ornaments. Mrs. Thompson was regal in an exquisite pink and white satin gown. The bodice was trimmed in chiffon and pearls, and points of pearls were let in the skirt in front. Miss Copeland, who is with Miss Louisa Thomas, was one of the prettiest girls present. She is a tall, slender blond with the most exquisite coloring. Her dress was of fluffy white organdy over tulle, and she reminded one of some beautiful, fragrant flower.

Miss Silvi Weibull, one of the best known and most brilliant women journalists of the west, is in the city, and was among the distinguished visitors in the press room Saturday. Miss Weibull is young, brilliant in conversation and has spent several years abroad in journalism. She conducts the woman's department of The Minneapolis Times and represents The Omaha World-Herald and The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

At 8:30 the bride party entered the beautifully decorated parlor and they stood before a large altar of flowers. Rev. L. A. Simpson pronounced the solemn words which made them man and wife. The attendants were Mr. George McMillan, brother of the groom, and Miss Etta Sherman, the bride's sister.

On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. McMillan drove over to Westboro, where a most elegant reception was given them at the home of Captain J. P. Wilson, step-father of the groom. He is now engaged in writing a play that bids fair to outshine all his previous efforts in the dramatic line and has been much commented upon by all who have read it.

Mrs. Shrader was Miss Marie Bailey, of the staff of The Post, and is one of the most talented among the women correspondents at the capital. Her contributions to the "Nancy" column and art notes are among the most interesting of The Post's contributions. She is a blond of a pronounced southern type, having been born in Talladega, Ala., where she lived for some years. Her family is a well-known one among the old southern ante-bellum regime.

FEMININE TRAMPS.
 Two young women on their way from Chattanooga to Jacksonville, Ida and Ella Nelson, two young women from Chicago, reached Atlanta last night on their way to Jacksonville, Fla. They left Chicago last night, and are coming to Jacksonville on a wager. They must not pay one cent for anything and must have saved $500, all made honestly.

If they make the trip and save the requisite amount of money they will receive $200 for their trouble. The girls have enjoyed roughing it and have been pleasantly surprised. They say that they intend to get work in Atlanta and will stay here two weeks or more.

THE TRAMP SISTERS.
 Ida and Ella Stop Over in Chattanooga To See the Sights.

Chattanooga, November 10.—(Special.)—The "tramp sisters," Ida and Ella Nelson, who are earning a wage of $50 to reach Jacksonville, Fla., by December 5th, starting from Chicago on October 5th, without money, arrived here yesterday morning. They were as brown as berries and had ridden as first-class passengers all the way from Knoxville. Yesterday afternoon they saw the sights on horseback by courtesy of a local livery firm.

Mayor Thompson, of Knoxville, furnished them a ticket to London, where the conductor refused to let them go any further, but they soon began to fare money from crowd of men who were enjoying the joke at their expense. With their buckram figures off with their hats and their concealing the hem of their bloomers, they would be easy rivals of Mrs. Buffalo Bill Cody. They went to Home today. They found the newspaper here a most interesting one. The girls will write a book of their experiences on returning home.

THE HOME BANK CASE.
 Mr. Collins Has Something To Say About Mr. Payne's Interview.

The statement of Mr. Columbus Payne concerning the deposit of $50,000 in the Home bank calls out a reply from President J. R. Collins, of the bank.

Mr. Collins takes exception to Mr. Payne's statement of the case. "The facts in the case are very plain, and there can be no mistaking them," said Mr. Collins. "Mr. Payne had an account at the Home bank and also at the Fidelity. Back in April Mr. Payne deposited $7,000 in the Home bank. Later, I think it was in May or June, he deposited another $2,000. At the same time he had $5,000 in the Fidelity. When he wanted money he always drew on the Fidelity, and if he wanted money added to his Fidelity account he would tell me to make transfer from the Home bank account. Mr. Payne must certainly have been misquoted in saying that he did not know he had an account at the Home bank. He had a regular account, and the checkbook that was checked up each month, and he certainly knew he had the $2,000 balance there. As for the suggestion that I transferred the money to the Home bank, that is foolish on his face."

Waging War on the Gamblers.
 Milwaukee, Wis., November 10.—Chief of Police Jansen began a war of extermination of gambling in Milwaukee last night. The police raided three of the principal gambling houses and captured twenty-seven players and keepers and a large amount of paraphernalia. The Wisconsin Club, one of the places raided, is claimed by its proprietors to be running under the protection of the state and they say they will contest the case against them.

THE FAMOUS SEVENTH

The Noted Regiment From New York Almost Certain To Come.

GATE CITY GUARD'S GUESTS

Major Burke Feels Sure That the Famous Regiment Will Visit Atlanta on New York Day.

The coming of the celebrated Seventh regiment of New York seems quite probable. Everything is being arranged for the trip and everything in Atlanta is ready for the reception of this and the other famous companies that are coming.

With the Seventh regiment will come the Old Guard, of New York city, which is also a famous company. The Burgess's Corps has postponed its trip until the date set for the coming of the Seventh, which means that they are coming.

The three companies will bring between 1,500 and 2,000 active soldiers to Atlanta. The Seventh regiment alone has 900 men who will come if everything is arranged. The companies are at present raising the necessary sum to make the trip. The Seventh regiment is raising $5,000 with which to make the trip to Atlanta.

The Old Guard, of New York city, which is made up of retired officers of the state militia, has all the money that is needed to make the trip, and whether or not they come is to be decided by the action of the Seventh regiment. The Burgess's Corps will follow the Seventh, and the Seventh, or not. They are booked to reach Atlanta Tuesday morning, but have postponed their trip until New York day at the exposition. They have nevertheless sent a committee from the company, which will arrive Tuesday, and this committee will make arrangements for the coming of the Burgess's Corps and probably the companies from New York city.

Colonel Joseph F. Burke, commander of the Gate City Guard, has been corresponding among the Washington newspaper men, and said last night that he didn't think there was any doubt about the New York companies coming.

"We have had arrangements for their reception and their entertainment while here," said Colonel Burke Saturday. "I have been corresponding with the companies, and they are anxious to come and we are anxious to have them come. They say they are getting up the desired sum to make the trip, and they will be able to get up the sum easily. We have made all arrangements for their reception and entertainment while here and will meet the largest number of soldiers in the Gate City Guard to welcome them."

Colonel Burke has been corresponding with these companies for several weeks and he feels satisfied that they are coming.

The coming of the representative military organization of the Empire State is set for the 22nd of November. The day the Gate City Guard, with a full battalion in their handsome full dress uniform, will meet the visitors' special at Gainesville and escort them to the city.

The uniform of the Seventh regiment is of gray with white cross belts, and they present a catchy appearance. This will be the largest collection of soldiers in Atlanta since the day Sherman laid the town in ashes.

While here the companies, escorted by the Gate City Guard, will be the grandest military pageant ever seen on the streets of Atlanta.

Upon their arrival, which will be in the evening, the streets will be illuminated with lights of all colors. The friends of the army will be there to meet them, and the Putnam Phalanx burned red lights on each corner, and they are going to burn barrels of tar and other illuminating articles and place them on the corners.

In command of the Seventh regiment will be Colonel Appleton, one of the most prominent military men in the city of New York. He is very much enthused over the trip to Atlanta. In his letters to Colonel Burke he has expressed himself as confident that the trip will be made.

AT MOODY'S TABERNACLE.
 REV. DWIGHT L. MOODY PREACHED TO TWO AUDIENCES.

At Both Sermons He Had a Large and Interested Crowd. Synopsis of His Sermon.

The interest in the Moody tabernacle meetings continues, and in both sermons yesterday there were large crowds despite the inclement weather.

In the morning sermon, among other things, Mr. Moody said: "I want you to testify in the evening of life that if we have complied with the condition, the Lord has forgiven its work to the letter. I believe you could leave the ocean easier than break one of God's promises. So when we come to a promise, like the one we have before us today, I want you to bear in mind that there is no discount upon it. You will find it in the closing of the eleventh chapter of Matthew: 'Come unto me all ye laboring and heavy laden, and I will give you rest.' If you probe the human heart you will find in that heart a want, and that want is rest. The cry of the world today is 'where can we find rest?' Why are our theaters and places of amusement crowded tonight? Because people expect to get rest there. That is what people are after—rest. Some think they are going to get it in pleasure, others in wealth, and others in literature. They are seeking and finding no rest. Now, I believe there is but one place in this dark world where you can find rest. If I wanted to find a man or woman that had rest, I would go to some one that has heard the voice of Jesus saying, 'Come unto me and I will give you rest.'"

His sermon last night was from Isaiah, IV, 7, and was a splendid one.

Called Off.
 Austin, Tex., November 10.—The double shot championship match between Jack Gaudaur and James Rogers and Bubar and Haines, closed yesterday, was carried off last night owing to the fact that the two men were unable to agree on the terms to play railroad fare and hotel bills, and no money was paid for the match. The match was to be played on Sunday. It is the second time since the governor Culberson, Gaudaur and the other men left last night for their homes.

A TRIP TO ATLANTA FREE OF CHARGE.

From The Rome Tribune.
During the exposition everybody will go to Atlanta, and the question of expense is a necessary subject for consideration. While there are many ways of economizing, as to leave an offset on your traveling expenses, there is no method of doing this more surely than by going to J. P. Stevens & Bro., the well-known jewelers, 47 Whitehall street, where watches, diamonds, silver, etc., will be offered you at such a low price that you will have your traveling expenses simply by the difference in their prices and what is demanded for the same thing at other places. Another point—what you get from J. P. Stevens & Bro. you can rest assured is pure. They have a great reputation for fair dealing and pure goods.

BEAUTY'S ARMY.

Sixty Lovely Girls Gave an Entertainment Last Night.

THE GRAND WAS PACKED
Girls of the Graduating Class of '95 Entertain a Huge Audience at the Opera House.

Sixty Atlanta girls, beautiful girls just blooming into womanhood, appeared on the stage in an entertainment at the Grand opera house Saturday night and pleased a great audience.

They were girls of the graduating class of this term of the Girls' High school. The entertainment was held under the auspices of the woman's department of the Cotton States and International exposition and of the alumnae of the Girls' High school.

The whole affair was a grand success. Never before in Atlanta has a finer entertainment of like character been given. In the midst of the gay theater season now incident to the exposition season it takes a fine entertainment to draw, and that so large a crowd was at the Grand Saturday night, and bad weather, too, may certainly be considered complimentary to the girls who took part in the programme.

The names of the young ladies who rendered the programme follow:

Misses Mary Askew, Della Akers, Viola Bacon, Caroline Bacon, Ida Bowie, Julia Brenner, Edith Bonham, Ora Corbin, Jessie Cook, Ethel Cook, Roy Clowe, Susie Davis, Louise Dibble, Gussie Eberhart, Stacy Earnest, Beulah Fuld, Nina Fuller, Marie Frie, Mai Giles, Mattie Gaur, Natalie Heath, Jettie Hester, Josie Hester, Bertha Henderson, Josie Helz, Ruby Irwin, Mary Isham, Rosa Ivy, May Ivy, Laura Johnson, Vera Johnson, Edith Johnson, Heryl Lyndon, Beulah Liebman, Carrie Liebman, Venia Liebman, Gussie Liebman, Martha Moore, Hattie Moore, Mamie Magill, May McCall, Jennie May, Nellie Nolan, Gussie Parkhurst, Bright Rogers, Neil Rordan, Eleanor Rosenfeld, Jennie Smith, Jessie Smith, Shaw, Jennie Shannon, Annie Sawtell, Stella Shulfer, Lilly Trotter, Mamie Tolbert, Viola Tupper, Lulla Williams, Sadie Williamson.

Every young lady whose name appears above sang several times during the rendition of the programme. The first feature was a march by all these young ladies. They appeared in uniform dress. Each wore a thin white muslin and carried in her hands a wreath of red roses. The march was splendidly given.

"The Whistling Regiment," a recitation by Miss Marie Tolbert, captured the audience. Miss Tolbert has a fine voice and her recitation of "The Whistling Regiment" was perfect.

The singing of Miss Littlefield was received by the audience with cheers. Miss Littlefield's rendition, "My Pretty Maiden," was especially beautiful.

The programme in full is below:
Selection—Worm's orchestra.
March by class of 1895.
Recitation, "The Whistling Regiment"—Miss Marie Tolbert.
Soprano solo, "My Pretty Maiden," from "Salome," Miss Littlefield.
Pantomime, "Do They Miss Me at Home"—Recited by Miss Bright Rowe, niece of General John B. Lowe.
Selection—Worm's orchestra.
Recitation, "The Two Runaways"—Miss Jennie Helmer.
Soprano solo, selected—Miss Kate Darby.
Japanese Fantasia—Fifteen maids from Japan.
Selection—Worm's orchestra.
Pantomime, "Paradise and the Peri"—Recited by Miss Laura Johnson.

One of the best numbers was a pantomime, "Do They Miss Me at Home," recited by Miss Bright Rowe with a vocal accompaniment by the orchestra.

That part of the programme, "Japanese Fantasia—Fifteen Maids from Japan," was rendered by the following girls: Misses Ethel Cook, Roy Clowe, Stacy Earnest, Beulah Fuld, Nina Fuller, Mattie Gaur, Estelle Henderson, Ruby Irwin, May Ivy, Carrie Liebman, Venia Liebman, Eleanor Rosenfeld, Mamie Tolbert, Viola Tupper and Sadie Williamson.

When the curtain rose upon the last part of the programme it was a beautiful picture. It was a pantomime and recitation, the recitation by Miss Laura Johnson, entitled "Paradise and the Peri." This was probably the gem.

The entertainment was a big success altogether and to Miss Sergeant, principal of the Girls' High school, to a great extent this is due.

NEWS OF THE COURTS.

The Odell Injunction Case Argued Before Judge Lumpkin Saturday.

In the superior court Saturday, Judge Lumpkin presiding, the case of Odell against the city called.

This is the case of the poolroom business—the selling of pools on horse races. The petition of Odell calls that the city be permanently enjoined from interfering with his business. Colonel Glenn spoke for the petitioner. The case went over and will be taken up again in chambers some time in the future.

The hearing for a new trial in the Elder Dempster v. Gaston & Co. Librarian Ex-gration Society in Drakeford contempt case has been set for November 16th by Judge Lumpkin.

The docket for the first division, Judge Van Epps presiding, will meet today. There will be civic business both with jury and without.

Heber, formerly a Bavarian subject, took out naturalization papers before Judge Lumpkin Saturday.

SEEKING OFFICE.

Many Candidates Have Announced for the City Election.

The political race has begun to buzz in the bonnets of aspirants for municipal honors in Atlanta.

The race is on and several candidates have been announced by their friends. From all the wards of the city comes the report that candidates will make a strong fight.

Several are in the race for aldermanic honors and many have announced themselves as being candidates for councilmen.

Mr. James G. Woodward from the sixth ward has announced that he is in the race for alderman, subject to the action of the executive committee of the first Wednesday in December. From the same side of the city Mr. R. P. Dodge will oppose the candidacy of Mr. Woodward. Both gentlemen are well known in the city and have many friends who will work for them.

The list of candidates from the second ward are H. C. Sawtell, S. B. Turman, G. N. Hurl and J. E. Maddox. Others will announce in the next few days and the race from the second will be exciting.

Mr. Sampson A. Morris and Mr. E. Nelson, of the fourth ward, have made their announcements as candidates.

Up to date Mr. Sampson A. Morris is the only candidate that has publicly made his announcement.

From the fifth ward, of the fifth ward, and Mr. T. D. Meador, of the sixth, are in the race and will fight for the honor of representing their respective wards in the council next year.

We Have Largely Advertised

The great beauty, goodness and price-reasonableness of our Men's Suits and Overcoats. The same quick and matchless progress is evident in the Boys' Department. Cloth, trimming, workmanship and style effect cannot be excelled in America. Of course all this merit would be worthless if prices were wrong. THEY ARE NOT WRONG.
